

BRING HISTORY TO LIFE

Charles Gerard's Regiment of the Sealed Knot Society

Re-enacting the Civil Wars of 17th Century Britain

We offer

- More than 40 years of experience in re-enacting the turbulent period when the armies of the Crown and Parliament waged Civil War across early modern Britain.
- Presentations ranging in size from individual talks and interactive living-history demonstrations, displays of weapons and drill, through to stunning re-enactments of large scale battles, pitching pike, musket, artillery and cavalry into atmospheric conflict.
- Enthusiastic and approachable experts able to demonstrate the foods and fashions, sports and games and a variety of period crafts to illustrate and explain the daily lives of soldiers and civilians at all levels of society.
- A tailored package to suit your venue and audience.

As the main attraction or as one element of a multi-themed event; from local fête to town festival; whether you are a school, club or society, a national charity, local authority or even a stately home, we will work with you to conjure the sights, sounds, smells and wonders of the 17th Century before the eyes of the public.

The Benefits

The sheer spectacle of a historical re-enactment has an immediate and direct entertainment appeal to families, foreign tourists and history enthusiasts.

They are the best way to raise awareness of your local heritage; to interpret, commemorate and integrate it into a national context.

They are a great way to raise funds for any cause.

Of course, all these benefits can also apply directly to the venues themselves. Many have reported a rise in visitor numbers as a result of Sealed Knot displays.

Endorsement From A Recent Event

"A very big thank you for the colourful, educational and exciting demonstrations. ... The living history camp also excited lots of interest and, together with the noise and smell of the cannons and muskets, added a great deal to the authenticity of the scene ... You all seemed to take the weather and general conditions in your stride again ... Thank you once more for leaving your campsites perfectly clean and tidy. It was a pleasure to have you all around for the weekend."
